

SIOP endorses
Fred Oswald for
APA Board of Directors
(Slate 1)

Dr. Fred Oswald is Professor and Herbert S. Autrey Chair in Social Sciences at Rice University. SIOP endorses his candidacy for Member-at-Large on APA's Board of Directors due to his extensive leadership and service to psychology. His many roles in APA and applied psychology include:

- Current member of the APA Future of Work Advisory Group
- Past chair of three APA Boards/Committees: Board of Scientific Affairs, Committee on Psychological Tests and Assessment, and Open Science and Methodology
- Past-President of SIOP (APA Division 14)
- Member of APA Advocacy Coordinating Committee
- Current Chair of the Board on Human-Systems Integration (BOHSI) at the National Academy of Sciences
- Recent Member of the National Artificial Intelligence Advisory Committee (NAIAC, 2022-25), which advised the White House during the Biden administration
- Outgoing Associate Editor at Journal of Applied Psychology
- Incoming Editor in Chief at Psychological Methods
- Fellow of APA (Divisions 5, 8, 14), APS, and SIOP

If elected to the board, Dr. Oswald would bring over 25 years of research and consulting experience as an industrial-organizational psychologist, one who has a broad perspective through continuous collaborations across disciplines of psychology (e.g., clinical, social, personality, cognitive, human factors). He would support greater APA engagement internally (across APA Divisions, Boards and Committees, and SPTAs) as well as externally (with policymakers, educators, and the general public).

SIOP is the Society for Industrial & Organizational Psychology (APA Division 14). Please note that there are 2 slates for Member-at-Large positions. SIOP's endorsement of Dr. Fred Oswald and Dr. Rodney Lowman do not conflict – they are on different slates. The election will take place August 1 – September 15. Please vote in this election and endorse candidates who will support applied psychology! Eligible voters will receive a personalized ballot from elections@apa.org.
